Figures Don't Lie.

It doesn't take much knowledge of mathematics to figure out the fact that one seventh of all the deaths in Christendom each year may be safely attributed to consumption and allied diseases.

There is an almost certain cure and a positive preventive for this fatal disease if taken in time. The story of what it will do is told in the following letter:

"About two and a half years ago, when I was at Flat Rock, Ky., writing Mr. W. J. W. for a bottle of Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, I was taken with a cold, which I did not think much of at first. It grew, however, and I began to cough, and I was told that I had consumption. I was very much alarmed, and I began to look for a cure. I tried many remedies, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I then saw an advertisement for Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and I bought a bottle. I took it as directed, and in a few days I began to feel better. I continued to take it, and in a few weeks I was completely cured. I have since taken it several times, and it has always done me good. I can now breathe freely, and I am in good health. I am sure that Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is a most valuable remedy for all cases of cold, cough, and consumption. I can recommend it to all who are afflicted with any of these troubles. It is a most reliable and effective remedy, and it is sold everywhere. I have since taken it several times, and it has always done me good. I can now breathe freely, and I am in good health. PURIFYING THE LIBRARY.

While the doctors are busy chasing smallpox and the town is being fagged and the fateful yellow flag flies merrily in the breeze, the moral health of the patrons of the library is being duly watched over by the proper censors of that institution in the way of expunging from the catalogues and banishing from the shelves certain works of fiction thought to be deleterious to the unwary. With a view of knowing what we should avoid, and what temptations we should resist, we have carefully preserved one of these books now under the ban. It is an American novel whose author recently died in London, where he fell into the hands of the "faith cure" people, who, declining to call in a physician, the patient was permitted to die a natural death. Among the "dramatis personae" of this novel are a Catholic priest, a Methodist minister and an Irish-Catholic girl, who is described as a "surprisingly beautiful, with red-gold hair, exquisite brown eyes and lovely fair skin. Now all of these characters are at one period friends, the finest. Albeit fond of the flesh-pots, is not charged in the narrative either directly or otherwise with having any relationship with this "burning" Sappho of a girl than those of a strictly innocent and platonic nature. Our minister, though, who appears to be a romantic temperament, falls desperately in love with Sappho. Sappho is an artist, following the Greek school and possessing a studio fixed up in Oriental splendor, but a highly girl neglects to drap sturdy statue she is standing around, and, worse still, is regaling herself with a cigarette on one occasion when our minister happens to call in, whereupon, instead of reading Sappho a lecture, he is induced to join her in a quiet smoke. Wicked man, who, by the way, is married, unconsciously of course, and whose wife is ignorant of his little romance. Now comes the denouement or climax. Sappho and our minister are walking one May day through the "flowery meads" of the fields, and Sappho who instinctively knows that our minister is enamored of her, declines to let him know it, and when he tells him so, she suggests to him that he may impress a sisterly kiss upon her lovely mouth, and instead of lifting his arms in holy horror, and "alack, and for shame!" this disciple of the Gospel then and there takes her rosy lips with his drooping moustache. Now we cannot find language sufficiently severe with which to express our disapproval of these two wiser persons. Certainly this is no reading for persons of taste and sense, and we would not wonder if it were introduced to any other kind.—cont.

We learn that a number of gentlemen have been invited to assemble this evening to form an advisory committee to assist in this purging process, and their unvarying habit of reading nothing but the most pure and chaste literature, we are satisfied that happy results will come from this recent move, and business in second-hand bookstores will be active.

HORRORS OF BURIAL ALIVE.—A dispatch from North Tonawanda, N. Y., says: A ghastly discovery was made at the village cemetery, two miles north of Pendleton, Thursday morning, when the body of James Ringley was exhumed at the instance of insurance men for an autopsy to discover the cause of his death. The glass covering of the casket was broken, and the distorted features of the corpse, the position of his hands and feet, together with a number of blood spots on his face showed that the deceased was buried before death.

Mr. Ringley was quickly interred while in a trance it is claimed by several physicians who viewed the body yesterday afternoon. On Wednesday of last week, after a short siege of illness, he apparently succumbed, and Dr. Monterey, the family physician, declared him dead.

On Saturday the funeral was held from the residence, and it was attended by all of the farmers in the vicinity.

A few years ago the deceased took out several insurance policies on his life. Mr. Ringley was a prominent man, and was thought to have been wealthy. He is survived by a widow and four sons. Relatives already contemplate an action for heavy damages against the physician.

THE ICE BRIDGE AT NIAGARA.—The weather at Niagara Falls, which is intensely cold, has solidified the ice bridge so that it will take a period of very warm weather to break it up. With the ice that has formed in Lake Erie during this cold spell coming over the falls, the indications are that the bridge will assume formidable proportions. The cold wave has greatly added to the ice already on the islands, where thousands of trees are covered with frozen spray, many of them unable to withstand its weight.

Story of a Slave.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the chains of disease is the worse form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work."

This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, backache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working machine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cts. Sold by E. L. Allen and E. S. Leabreter & Sons, druggists.

An Honest Medicine for La Grippe. George W. Waitt, of South Gardner, Me., says: "I have had the worst cold, cold, chills and gripe and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vendor. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one 50 cent bottle and the chills, cold and gripe have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by J. H. Janney, Druggist, 701 King St.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepherd, Publisher Agricultural Journal and Farmer, Eldon, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Edgar Washfield, Jr., corner King and Pitt streets.

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely's Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement. "It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed."—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Pres. Church, Helena, Mont.

After using Ely's Cream Balm six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh.—Joseph Stewart, Grand Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

A 10c trial size of the 50c size of Ely's Cream Balm will be mailed. Kept by druggists. Ely Brothers, 56 Warren St., N. Y.
